Notes

Compulsory health insurance in Switzerland

Anyone who lives or works in Switzerland must take out basic insurance in accordance with the Swiss Health Insurance Act (HIA). Persons residing abroad who hold a residence permit for at least three months are also obligated to take out insurance. This includes cross-border commuters as well.

Who is eligible for an exemption from compulsory health insurance?

An exemption from compulsory health insurance is only possible for a few groups of people upon request, and exemptions are granted only sparingly. The Social Insurance Agency [Sozialversicherungsanstalt] (SVA) decides on applications for exemption. More detailed information can be found on the website of SVA Zürich.

A detailed overview of who may be exempted from compulsory health insurance can be found on the website of the SVA Zürich at www.svazurich.ch/kvg-befreiung.
